MEDICINAL.

Take Simmons' Liver Regulator For all diseases of the Liver, Stomach and Spleen.

WILL CURE DYSPEPSIA.

I MUST OWN that your Simmons' Liver Regulator fully deserves the popularity it has attained. As a family medicine it has no equal. It cured my wife of a malady I had counted incurable -- that wolfsbane of our American people, Dyspepsia. A. E. P. ALBERT, Professor in Nicholas Pub-lic School, Parish of Ter-rebonne, La.

MALARIOUS FEVERN

You are at liberty to use my name in praise of your Regulator as prepared by you, and recommend it to every one as the best preventive for Fever and Ague in the world. I plant in southwestern Georgia, near Albany, Georgia, and must say that it has done more good on my plantation among my negroes than any medicine I ever used. It supersedes quinine if taken in time. Yours, &c., Hon. B. H. HILL, Ga. CHILDRENI-Your Regnlator is superior to any other remody for Malarial Diseases among children, and it has a large sale in this section of Georgia.—[W. M. Russell, Albany, G. Russell, Albany, Ga.

CONSTIPATION. TESTIMONY OF THE CHIEF JUSTICE OF GEORGIA.-I have used Simmons' Liver Regulator for constipation of my bowels, caused by a temporary derangement of the liver, for the last three or four years, and always, when used according to the directions, with decided benefit. I think it is a good medicine for the derangement of the liver—at least such has been my personal experience in the use of it.

HIRAM WARNER,

Chief Justice of Georgis.

SICK HEADACHE. EDITORIAL-We have tested its virtues, personally, and know that for Dyspep-sia, Biliousness and Throtbing Headache, it is the best medicine the world eversuw. We have tried forty other remedies before Simmons' Liver Regulator, but none of them gave us more than temporary relief; but the Regulator not only relieved but cured us.—[Editor Tele-graph and Messenger, Ma-

Having had during the last twenty years of my life to attend to Racing Stock, and having had so much trouble with them with Colic, Grubbs, &c., gave me a great deal of trouble. ### Hayes and His Censors.

The President's quiet play of solitaire with the Southern question is both amusement and amazement to the cheap politicians, who are not uppermost in Hayes's thoughts and fears. Ben Wade, the aged cattle-drover, who once, by a miracle, failed in succeeding in the Presidency a man only less virulent than himself-I mean Andy Johnson-Ben, they say, has written some letters. So did Mrs. Potiphar; so did Mr. Dick-he who was at work on the life of Charles I. There is nothing terrible in Ben Wade's letters or Wendell Phillips's speeches; becoming wholesale, they are purchased by the bushel. Having extirpated slavery, the next things to extirpate are the egotists who affect to think they did it all, and who want a popular pension, by lecturing on it some other way, for having promised that they did it. The congregated suffering and elequence of Wendell Phillips's life, is not equal to the dying pang of any little drummer bey who received his mortal wound and thought of his mother, as he bled away his youth and faith. No, not it that little boy was in the Rebel or Union ranks! Particularly not, if he said, looking toward the enemy—which ever side his enemy might have been—"Father, forgive them! They know not what they do." Thousands of such little brave boys are dead and rotten, but the public blow-hard lives on, that image in breeches who stands up beside President Hayes like the Pharisec beside the genial sinner, and thanks God that in magnanimity, philosophy and associations he is not as that man. It is seldom that Providence lets any great conflict go by without making plain the motives of the little and the great, the beaten and the victor, particularly if that conflict is pregnant with moral consequences. That the American rebellion should end with the vindication and complacent pantheonizing of every old phrase-singer who drew an audience by chanting against slavery, is violative of every historical decency. The generous and just are more apt to be men between the ranks, who die without a platitude and fight without a motto. The sublimity and perfect simplicity of Washington's character so far survived the scaudals of the American revolution that he was never assailed until the wanton envy of men like Phillips took his memory from the grave to villify it. Clean-handed men were willing to respect a former revolution, as a proof of their own propriety, in another. But Mr. Phillips's sole title to respect is the easy and Chester-fieldian way in which he pronounced both Washington and Lincoln to be worthy of noth-Newest Fabrics in imported Dress Goods, in what I have said in its praise. I can send you certificates from Augusts, Clinton and Macon was Minerva's own hired man, working for wisdom, cheap. It is generally made clear of these men before they die, that their personal honesty is not much greater than their sense of reverence. One of the letter writers against President Hayes has been walking up and down the Washington lobby for about four years working up an old, wrecked railroad interest.

I saw a very prominent man from Maine yesterday, who said to me :-"Don't get wrong on the State of Maine. Hayes has all the respectability of the party in his favor, and Mr. Blaine has not been so weak for six years as at this minute in the upright constituency. Our people are tired of his cheap diatribe, his bogus gallantry and his pinchback assumption of superior honor. There isn't a man in the State of Maine who don't giggle by the fire of nights, with his old woman, at Blaine's attempt to explain his letters last spring. He got a spell of sympathy when he fainted. That sympathy disappeared the instant he tried to 'buck' against this administration. Every act of Hayes only puts in distorted contrast the anxious posturing of Mr. Blaine to go it one better. Our people see that sham and deceit and distrust must end, if we are ever to have a recovered country, where somebody beside the politicians can make a living. -N. Y. Graphic. BARBARA FREITCHIE ANSWERED,-At a meeting Tuesday night of the Brooklyn memorial committee of the G. A. R., to provide for the decoration of the dead soldiers graves, the resolution of Barbara Freitchie post, asking a withdrawal of the invitation to Gen. Pryor to deliver the annual address on May 30, was read. On motion of Corporal J. A. Tanner a reply reminding Barbara Freitchie post that the memorial committee was in no way responsible to t for any action it sees fit to take was adopted. The reply adds: We would furthermore state to them that we invited Gen. Roger A. Pryor to deliver an address in the Academy of Music on the night of decoration day for the reason that he fought against us in the war for the preservation of the Union; that he is an able man, and that we believe such action calculated to prove to the country that the men who fought its battles do not desire to see it forever divided by sectional animosities growing out of the war. Further, Gen. Pryor having accepted the invitation "in the full spirit in which it was tendered," and the probabilities being that a distinguished ex-Union general will speak on the same occasion, we shall have cause, when the affair is consummated, to congratulate all concerned, and would respectfully request the members of Barbara Freitchie post to be present. Mr. Tanner said he had received the follow DEAR SIR: As you know I accepted the invitation to deliver the address on the assurance that it was unanimously tendered, and that by fulfilling the office I should contribute somewhat to the prevalence of good feeling between the surviving soldiers of the war. It seems this was a misapprehension. I hear of some protest against Confederate participation in your memorial service, and accordingly I beg respectfully, but peremptorily to recall the engage-ment. With thanks for your courtesy, I am your obedient servant, ROGER A. PRYOR. The committee then unanimously declined to accept Gen. Pryor's declination of the invitation, believing the declaration to have been written under a misapprehension of the sentiments actuating the committee.
